Have someone point one by one to ten words in the first list and you say the words. Keep your own score by making an X over the number if you get it wrong and circle it if you get it right. Add up your score and write it down. When you get all ten right, wait until the next day and then move on to the second group. When you get ten correct in the second group, wait one day and then move on to the last group. Study the words as much as you want before the game.
